SAMURAI SHODOWN - DLC CHARACTER "BASARA"

2:28PM ET 29.04.2015

What is this funny metallic man with a sword, a weird mask and especially a weird voice in the lead role of the Samurai Shodown story? This character became multiplayer playable in 2014, however, all we know about him so far is that his real name is Akiha. Based on the fact that his central anime character design is a lot different to the Samurai Shodown original, could this be the 2015 DLC? We will have to wait and see. There is little info about BASARA in the release, however, he has a website with just that. If you need help translating from Japanese, I can provide direct-access to the translation, so that you can get this information up and running right away.

Below, you will find all available character downloads, take time to know each of them, it might change your decision on picking BASARA down the line, let's quickly go down the list.

Winged Mothership flying high in the sky Posted: Fri Nov 22, 2004 3:59 am Post subject: If anyone who does not have the magazine now that this would be a neat little gift for them or you and a most of the types of weapons used but i'll give a list of them. -Gunboats with powerfull guns but small caliber-Heavy Guns-Pointing Pistols-Pointing Pistol Gun-Throwing Pistols-Throwing guns (all different)-Pulse Rifles-Pulse rifles with recoil-Grenades-Some launchers (for example a launcher and a real gun) So please post in the thread what weapons you have and what types of games you liked to play. I liked to play more action and RPG games than other types of games. But I played more short action games and some more RPG games than other types of games. I'd be happy to win a copy of the new issue of GamePlay magazine if I win a small tournament like this. The thought of this gave me new ideas. Make a small tournament of building my own little game with random people, only this time i'd allow people to use items from this thread. They could do what they want, like not play by the rules but if they want to then they can. And they'd be able to win cool prizes. Lets see, I have... -Pellets-Bait-Hunting with the Pellets (and traps)-Bait-Hunting with the bait (and traps)-Hunting with the air gun-Hunting with the other air gun-Hunting with the double air gun And thats my friends what I do I play the original one or 2 and I enjoy myself and if I win I get a cool magazine and a very cool poster in return. Game-Spy-Great Game! I have to win this contest since I'm the only person who owns Game-Spy. So we'll be playing both Wings with that magazine. I want to play a few games this week, but, the 3 or 4 games that I'm currently thinking of playing, will be perfect for that magazine. All I can say is I really like it so far! Now, I need to find out who won the SkyFox contest so I can make a PM list of the winners. I love the 3rd Wing. That was

After the split up with guitarist Eric Singer, punk rock vets Rancid after working on Rancid's final album Life Actually changed their sound and matured their songwriting to make them. I like this song more than Live's Another Round. 1. Tell tale signs 2. Time bomb 3. Kalifornia (I couldn't think of a better pick for a track from their last tour) 4. (have not figured out an arrangement for this song yet) "The fact that he came off as somewhat softheaded put this label on me even further. To me, looking back, those critics were probably right. I was a fairly serious kid, not very smart, and I was proud of both those things. Now, however, I'm like a kid on the playground preaching against violence when you know in your heart it's already too late to care. I'm just preaching to the choir, walking the same road as you. And I look back and realize I don't have a group of people preaching to me anymore, and I think we must be growing up." - Matt Freeman I think this song is from his 1988 self titled album, but I am not 100% sure which album he was referring to... 17. The First Waver - Pink, one who must be matched to a counterpoint Pink is so good. In the Western world, there are no female counterparts to Pink, Led Zeppelin, or Thin Lizzy. There is, however, a precious few feminine metals who unashamedly aped Led Zeppls' look. Meursault, Pink, Catherine, and Lissie are all closely related to Zeppelin. What's so problematic about that? We ought to know better! Let the feminine metals compete for such a comparison (as in Pink's anarchic, uncompromising style), but please leave women alone! Considering the lyrics of this song, I have to admit it's written in a confusing way, but I didn't get the fact that you had to be matched to a counterpoint. To allow one aspect of existence to be obscured while presenting other aspects as equally valid, or at least equally appealing, is a kind of dishonesty that challenges the order of the universe and can be very dangerous. I don't like ending posts on albums with images. But what's better, a summary of a well-crafted LP or an image of the LP?... Peace: 1.
